SMALL FORMAT VIDEO COURSE

Have you ever wanted to use the video but been afraid to?? A course is being offered at D.C., Surrey Campus, on SMALL FORMAT VIDEO, for those intending to use video in such ways as closed circuit or community cable.
There will be discussions and work on basic camera techniques, lighting, sound, half-inch open reels, general production methods and cablecasting.

Classes commence Tuesday Oct. 17, and each following Tuesday from 1930 - 2130 hours for five weeks.

If interested contact Admissions, Surrey Campus.

ABE GETS $74,000 GRANT

College Council agreed to participate in a pilot project aimed at training volunteers to tutor non-reading adults in the community.

Starting in January, the program will provide workshops and practicum
experience to the volunteer tutors. The volunteers will be trained to use
a manual developed by the ABE faculty and printed by the College.

Nora Minogue, community development Coordinator for the project, will be released half-time from teaching to engage in community consciousness raising.

Barbara Bowmar, newly appointed regular faculty in ABE, will be released half-time on project
funds to coordinate
curriculum development
and to plan for the training of tutors.

Please encourage your
students to volunteer.
Research shows that
reading levels of tutors,
in many cases, increases
more than the reading levels of tutees.

INSTITUTE NOTICES

International Aid

I am happy to report that the sale of pottery handicrafts, clothing and household items donated by members of Douglas College faculty and staff yielded the sum of $178. This will be used as follows:

$90 - fees and living expenses for Yeshe Choden completing her teacher's training at Delhi University;

$60 - fees and living expenses for Yangla Tempa's tailoring training at the Vocational Training Centre Mussoorie;

$28 - towards equipping a classroom for day kindergarten and adult evening courses at Kollegal Rural Settlement, South India.

The proceeds of the sales of books donated by Dr. George Woodcock are sent to the Tibetan School in Kalimpong, near Darjeeling.

Publications

The following booklets are available from the Institute office (Surrey, portable A-6):

No. 27 Critique of the Preliminary Environmental Impact Study of the proposed Hat Creek Development.

No. 28 The Need for Conservation and Management of Wetlands on the Fraser Estuary and Delta.

No. 29 Marina needs problems in the Lower Mainland.

No. 30 The Decline of Geese and Swans on the Lower Fraser River.

The Impact of Man on the Waterfowl of the Lower Fraser River (abridged version of no. 30)

River Mechanics: A Physical Basis for Understanding the Lower Fraser River

This non-credit course given by Dr. A.J. Tamburi, Western Canada Hydraulics Laboratory, provides a valuable introduction to the behaviour of rivers and their management, based on the present knowledge of the Fraser. Instructors are requested to advise students considering a career in civil engineering, water management or biological sciences to take this course: 2nd Oct. - 18th Dec., 19:30 - 21:30, Room N308c,d, fee $30.
